I am told that this imagery analysis is performed by a small group headed by Mr. James Huettenmeyer, within [redacted] your Geophysical Department. The analysts here at CIA who work with Jim have the highest regard for his capabilities and responsiveness in the regular and ad hoc reporting he provides to keep our analysis current. [redacted]

I realize that the effort to which I refer is only a small part of the service that your center provides to the government. However, I believe it to be an outstanding example of the way in which a few talented and dedicated individuals can make a real contribution to our common goals. Again, thanks for a job well done. Sincerely,

Robert M. Gates
